DEATH—MUSIC.

by O. G. W.

"What music wakes me, sweet and low,
Out of my still repose?"

O mother, see! dost thou not know
What sounds so late are those?"

"I can hear naught, and naught I see.
Oh, slumber soft and mild!

No one is singing now to thee,
My darling suffering child."

"No earthly music can it be
That makes my soul delight;

It is the angels calling me—
O mother dear, good night."

Back To Nature.

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact, yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

A rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to show, but none the less most roosters have, enough good sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beasts, has a persistent way of letting people know he's around, by his insistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz, bulls bellow and cows moo, and watch-dogs bark and ganders quack and doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squawks; pigs squeal and robins sing, and even serpents know enough to hiss before they sting.

But Man, the greatest masterpiece that Nature could devise, will often stop and hesitate before he'll AD VER TISE!
